Art Unit 1711

All previous rejections have been withdrawn.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --
(e) The invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under Section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. § 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-15, 17, 35-51 and 59-85 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Ding et al. (USP 6,613,187).

Art Unit 1711

Ding et al. disclose a composition having 50% or less cyclic olefin polymer tradenamed "Topas" and 50% or more of poly(ethylene-butene) such as Exxon Exact 3025 having a density of 0.905. See the Table in columns 1 and 2 disclosing these materials for use in the compositions at the bottom of columns 13 and 14.

Since applicants' and patentees' composition both contain the same materials, applicants' and patentees' characteristics would reasonably appear to be inherently the same.

Claims 1-103 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Van Loon (USP 6,503,637).

Van Loon discloses a composition containing a major amount of polypropylene and various low density polyolefins having densities within the metes and bounds of less than "about" 0.915 as required by the instant claims. Note Table 1 columns 9 and 10 for use of the materials described at column 8 lines 18-50. Note that the materials have a heat seal strength which is measurable at temperatures of at much higher than 120° in most cases in Table 5 and applicants' heat seal strength characteristic reasonably appears to be inherent. Furthermore applicants' and patentee's materials for use in their compositions are the same and therefore applicants' characteristics would reasonably appear to be the same. Note the use of electron beam cross-linking at column 7 lines 6-12.

When the reference discloses all the limitations of a claim except a property or function, and the Examiner cannot determine whether or not the reference inherently possesses properties which anticipate or render obvious the claimed invention, basis exists for shifting the burden of proof to applicant. Note In re Fitzgerald et al. 619 F. 2d 67, 70, 205 USPQ 594, 596, (CCPA 1980). See MPEP § 2112-2112.02.

Claims 1-15, 17, 35-51 and 69-85 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Castellani et al. (USP 6,410,651).

Castellani discloses a composition containing a major amount of ethylene alphaolefin copolymer of density .885-.902 (note Table 1) and polypropylene (note Table 2). Since applicants' and patentee's materials are the same, applicants' and patentee's characteristics would reasonably appear to be the same also.

When the reference discloses all the limitations of a claim except a property or function, and the Examiner cannot determine whether or not the reference inherently possesses properties which anticipate or render obvious the claimed invention, basis exists for shifting the burden of proof to applicant.
